It was a busy first week back in Ottawa.

The following was debated in the House:

• Bill S-228 – Child Health Protection Act (Third Reading)

• Bill C-79 – Comprehensive and Progressive Agreement for Trans-Pacific Partnership Implementation Act (Second Reading)

• Bill C-375 – An Act to amend the Criminal Code (presentence report) (Report Stage)

The second requested that the government act to prevent Canadians from travelling abroad to receive illegally trafficked human organs.

On Friday, I gave a statement in the House to recognize my friend and Yellowhead constituent, Ray Gideon, who recently passed away at age 85.

You can read my comments on the corresponding day's Hansard on the House Publications page at www.ourcommons.ca/en.

In the Standing Committee on Public Safety and National Security (SECU), we met with a delegation from Norway, as well as received a briefing on cybersecurity for an upcoming study. As I have been newly appointed to SECU, I will be busy over the weekend reviewing material and preparing for my new role. For more information on these meetings, visit the SECU Committee website at www.ourcommons. ca/Committees/en/SECU.

This week, I attended ten meetings and five events. I will remain in Ottawa over the weekend as the House will continue to sit next week. Look for my update next Friday on the happenings of Parliament.

Submitted by Jim Eglinski, MP – Yellowhead

OTTAWA: Jim Eglinski, Member of Parliament for Yellowhead, is pleased to inform residents that Canadian small businesses are being invited to develop innovative solutions to seven domestic plastics challenges.

Through the Innovative Solutions Canada program, government departments are inviting small businesses to come up with innovative solutions in response to specific challenges they face. Find smart packaging design and other solutions to reduce plastic waste.

2. Find new ways to separate mixed plastics for recycling.

3. Identify ways to reduce and recycle plastic construction waste.

Fisheries and Oceans Canada is challenging small businesses to:

4. Find plastic-free ways to get fish from fish farms and the ocean to our plates.

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada and Natural Resources Canada are challenging small businesses to:

6. Turn leftover plant material from agriculture or forestry into compostable bioplastics.

Submitted by Jennifer Burgess, Press Secretary, Seniors and Housing | Government of Alberta

Community groups, municipalities and organizations can apply for new program funding to help seniors live healthy, engaged lives.

The Government of Alberta's new Aging Well in Community grant program will help local organizations improve the lives of seniors by funding community-based initiatives that remove barriers and help seniors stay in their homes and engaged in their communities.

The province is investing about $1 million annually through an open call for proposals for the program. The recipients can access funding for up to three years with a maximum amount of $100,000 per project. Each year, funding priorities will be updated to meet the changing needs of a diverse and growing seniors population.

"Seniors should be able to live safely and independently in their communities, close to loved ones. I am proud of this grant program that will establish new ways to shape bright, active futures for seniors in Alberta." -Lori Sigurdson, Minister of Seniors and Housing "We know that the majority of seniors want to live in their own homes as long as possible. We feel that this grant program will help seniors to access programs and services that will promote their physical, emotional and social well-being." - Sofia Yaqub, executive director, Shaama Centre

Applications are open until Nov. 16, 2018.

CHANGES TO PARENTAL BENEFITS

Submitted by Jim Eglinski, MP – Yellowhead

OTTAWA: Jim Eglinski, Member of Parliament for Yellowhead, is pleased to inform residents that the Government of Canada has announced that Employment and Social Development Canada intends to launch the new parental sharing benefit on March 17, 2019.

This new measure will provide an additional five weeks of Employment Insurance (EI) parental benefits when parents agree to share parental benefits, or an additional eight weeks for those who choose the extended parental benefit option. Parents with children born or placed for adoption on or after March 17, 2019, will be eligible.

As women make 85 percent of all parental claims and take longer leaves from the workplace, the EI parental sharing measure allows pregnant workers and their families to consider their personal, health and workplace circumstances when choosing when to begin their maternity leave.

SUPPORTING CRITICAL LAND AND WATER CONSERVATION

Submitted by Matt Dykstra, Press Secretary, Environment and Parks | Government of Alberta

The province is helping conserve 13,000 acres of private land containing vital watersheds, grasslands and wildlife habitats across the province.

The Alberta Land Trust Grant Program approved more than $7 million to support 24 different projects for the 2017-18 grant cycle. The grants protect watersheds and wildlife habitats on private land and help keep ranchlands intact.

"I'm proud of our government's work to conserve Alberta's incredible landscapes. We are preserving critical habitat and safeguarding these areas for future generations. I would like to thank the generous Alberta landowners who are working with these land trusts to support conservation efforts on their property." - Shannon Phillips, Minister of Environment and Parks

Grants will support projects by the Alberta Conservation Association, Ducks Unlimited Canada

AUCTIONS

(DUC), the Legacy Land Trust Society, the Nature Conservancy of Canada, the Southern Alberta Land Trust Society (SALTS) and Western Sky Land Trust.

SALTS received approximately $2.6 million for five different projects, including one that will protect 1,247 acres of ecologically valuable land at the WineGlass Ranch near Cochrane and Calgary. Home to many elk, deer and large carnivores, the area is under pressure from encroaching residential development. The land has been in the same family for more than 131 years.

"This project is a perfect example of how private land conservation benefits all Albertans. The Wineglass Ranch surrounds Jumpingpound Creek, a source of Calgary's drinking water, so keeping the property as healthy grasslands instead of roads and houses will help maintain water quality for hundreds of thousands of people." Justin Thompson, executive director, Southern Alberta Land Trust Society

Ducks Unlimited Canada will receive nearly $450,000 in grant funding to enhance protection of six parcels of land in central and southern Alberta. These land parcels are made up of key prairie landscapes, including native grassland, wetland and parkland habitats.

"Conserved wetlands and their associated uplands do so much to enhance the lives of Albertans. Yet every day, these remarkable natural areas continue to be threatened and lost. Ducks Unlimited Canada works tirelessly to prevent these losses, especially on private land, but we know we can't do it alone. We are very appreciative of the support provided by the Government of Alberta and the Alberta Land Trust Grant program which help us to work even more closely with landowners so that together we can protect these important ecological assets for generations to come." - Ron Maher, manager, provincial operations, Alberta, Ducks Unlimited Canada

Two large parcels of land in southern Alberta will be conserved for future generations with a grant of more than $1.7 million for Nature Conservancy of Canada. Both of these parcels are made up of vital native grasslands, which are under increasing pressure from development. These lands support diverse species that call southern Alberta home, including large carnivores, shorebirds and fish.

"The Land Trust Grant Program is a critically important part of the effort being made by private citizens and land trusts in Alberta to conserve the magnificent open spaces located in the settled area of Alberta. The ranch economy which has so ably kept these big open natural spaces of Alberta intact over the past century - can no longer compete with land prices being paid for subdivision, acreage development and crop production, making initiatives like the Alberta Land Stewardship Grant Program all the more important to ensuring Albertans can see and enjoy nature near where they live." - Larry Simpson, associate regional vice president, Nature Conservancy of Canada

Follow these fire safety tips, and review them with other members of your household, to protect yourself, your property, your community and your loved ones.

PREPARE

Install smoke alarms on every level of your home, as well as inside and outside every sleeping area.

Test smoke alarms monthly, and replace the batteries if needed.

Purchase and learn how to safely use a fire extinguisher.

Create a fire escape plan with your family, reviewing and practicing it twice a year.

Your fire escape plan should include two exit points from every room, as well as a designated outdoor meeting spot.

Make sure everyone in your family knows when and how to call 911 or the fire department.

PREVENT

Turn off portable heaters whenever you leave a room or go to sleep.

Keep matches and lighters out of reach from children, and make sure they know never to play with these items.

Replace or repair loose plugs, exposed wiring or frayed extension cords, and avoid overloading outlets and extension cords.

Keep any items that can catch fire at least three feet away from cooking and heating devices.

Remain in the kitchen when frying, grilling or broiling food. Always turn off the stove if you leave the kitchen even for a brief period of time.

STAY ALIVE

In the event of a fire, yell "Fire" repeatedly and evacuate immediately. Once outside, call 911 and never reenter a burning building for any reason.

If a door or door handle feels warm to the touch, do not open it. Use an alternate escape route.

If you must walk through smoke, get as close to the ground as possible to escape under the smoke, closing doors behind you.

If your clothing catches fire, always remember to stop, drop and roll, covering your face with your hands.

If you can't escape a room, close the door and cover vents and door cracks with a towel or cloth to keep out smoke. Signal for help at the window with a piece of cloth or a flashlight.

CONNECTING YELLOWHEAD: IMPROVING INTERNET AND CELL SERVICE FOR RURAL ALBERTA

Submitted by Kathy Rondeau Campaign

On September 18, 2018, Yellowhead Conservative Nomination Contestant Kathy Rondeau released a detailed plan outlining how she will advocate for improved internet access and cellular coverage in the region, if elected to be the party's candidate in the 2019 federal election.

"As I've travelled through the riding I've realized just how widespread this internet and cell coverage problem is, and how often it hurts our quality of life," said Rondeau. "There are just too many things folks in the city take for granted that we struggle with here because of bad coverage, whether it is business opportunities, productivity, education, safety, entertainment, social interaction or others. We need this addressed immediately to keep our young people here and our communities thriving."

Rondeau's plan lists four main strategies for improving the digital infrastructure and access in rural Alberta:

• Strong collaboration between the different levels of government and industry;

• Eliminating barriers to smaller providers who want to provide services but cannot access infrastructure or spectrum;

• Ensuring any linear infrastructure like roads or sewers incorporates telecommunications lines whenever feasible to reduce costs; and,

• Getting additional federal funding for rural Alberta's digital infrastructure to recognize how much we contribute to Canada's economy and to enable us to continue to be the nation's economic engine.

"Most of these proposals can help all rural communities in Canada and don't have much of a price tag, if any," Rondeau explained. However, after pointing out that Albertans contribute roughly $25 billion more to Ottawa than is returned in transfers and spending, she added, "But the fact is, west-central Alberta contributes so much to Canada's economy and to Federal coffers that our poor digital access is absolutely unacceptable. We should also be getting some of our federal tax dollars back in direct digital infrastructure investment from Ottawa so our communities can continue to fuel prosperity in Canada."

Quick Facts

• The Alberta Land Trust Grant Program supports projects that conserve ecologically important areas to prevent habitat fragmentation, maintain biodiversity and preserve native landscapes.

• This is accomplished through legally binding conservation easements that ensure good stewardship of private land and safeguard against most types of development.

• The program was established in 2011, and, to date, more than $55.7 million worth of grants have helped support the conservation of almost 111,000 acres of land in Alberta - the equivalent of approximately 55,500 football fields.

• For 2017-18, nearly 13,000 acres of land across the province will be conserved.

THREE - YEAR CAPITAL PLAN (2019-2022) REVISED

Submitted by Nikki Gilks, Manager, Communications Services | Grande Yellowhead Public School Division

September 27, 2018 - On March 21, 2018, the Board of Trustees approved the Three-Year Capital Plan (2019-2022). This plan prioritized the full modernization of Grand Trunk High School and Evansview School in Evansburg, as well as Wildwood School in Wildwood. The Three-Year Capital Plan identifies the division's capital priorities for two project types: modernization of existing facilities and new school construction/major additions. In order to accommodate situations where circumstances or board priorities may change after the capital plan has been submitted, each jurisdiction has the opportunity to request revisions to their capital plan priorities before September 30th of the submission year. At a Special Board Meeting today in Edson, trustees approved a revision to the Three-Year Capital Plan (2019-2022) to consolidate all three schools into a fully modernized facility on the Grand Trunk site.

"Our board is very appreciative of the feedback and participation from our stakeholders in our Evansburg/ Wildwood Facilities Review process," noted Board Chair and local trustee for the Lobstick zone, Brenda Rosadiuk. "This was not an easy decision to make, but one we felt was in the best interests of our students today, and in the future, in both communities. We are competing for provincial funding for capital projects with jurisdictions that are experiencing significant overcrowding. Grand Trunk has been on our capital plan for over a decade and we needed to change our strategy to assist our students in obtaining the optimum learning environment they deserve."

Approximately 10 percent of all province-wide capital plan submissions received funding approval last year.

Some of the factors considered in the board's decision were: programming options, impact on community, past and projected enrolments, demographics of both hamlets and surrounding communities, site constraints, geographic distribution, student retention within the division, transportation, building design and condition, school proximity, and community partnerships.

After careful consideration, the board moved to revise the Three-Year Capital Plan (2019-2022) in support of the amalgamation of all three schools into Evansburg, with a full modernization of Grand Trunk High School into a 500-student capacity facility from kindergarten to Grade 12. If approved, this would be the second school facility in the division with a kindergarten to Grade 12 population, with the first successfully implemented in Grande Cache.

The board's decision was made after a value scoping meeting in the spring of 2018 and a series of community engagement sessions over the last few months. Community engagement sessions were used to determine the final five facility options and decision criteria for the board to consider at today's meeting. For those that could not attend the engagement sessions, online surveys were available on the GYPSD website. Six delegations from different interest groups spoke at today's meeting to share their hopes and concerns for the three schools with the board of trustees.

Information collected for the Evansburg/Wildwood Facility Review is available on the division's website.

The board will now forward the revised Three-Year Capital Plan (2019-2022) to Alberta Education for their consideration.

LEARN HOW TO PREVENT DIY INJURIES

Thousands of people try their hands at do-it-yourself home improvement projects every year. Whether working indoors or outdoors, wearing safety gear and exercising caution is a necessity when undertaking any home remodeling project.

According to the Home Safety Council, one in five consumers will need medical attention this year as a result of home improvement projects. A 2013 survey by 3M TEKK Protection and the National Safety Council found that more than one-quarter of DIY home improvement projects ended with injuries to homeowners or someone else in the household. Falls from ladders, cuts from power tools and injuries from thrown debris account for many emergency room visits. Accidents involving chemicals and cleaning agents also can occur. Safety should be the utmost priority when renovating, and that means utilizing appropriate safety equipment.

PROTECTING PRIVATE DRINKING WATER SOURCES

Many people do not give much thought to their drinking water or where it comes from, only paying mind if the color, taste or pressure is unusual or if warnings are issued in the event of a water main break or flood.

Water for homes and businesses is often sourced from municipal water sources, but private wells also provide water. According to the U.S. Census Housing Survey 2015, 13 million households in the United States rely on private wells to supply their water. Many of these homes are located in hard-to-reach or rural areas where municipal water pipes do not travel.

Public water supplies are typically overseen by a governing body, such as the United States Environmental Protection Agency. However, these organizations may not regulate private wells, nor will they provide recommended criteria or standards for individual wells. As a result, it is up to individuals to make sure their well water is safe for consumption. Private well owners may be surprised to learn that, according to the U.S. Geological Survey, at least 20 percent of private wells contain contaminants, of which 23 percent have levels high enough to be a potential health concern.

Well water is groundwater found in subterranean aquifers. This groundwater comes from rainfall that is absorbed in the soil and slowly seeps downward through the dirt, rock and various underground spaces. Along this path it can pick up contaminants. Common sources of contaminants include farm waste, fertilizers and pesticides, chemical spills, poorly maintained septic systems, and seepage from landfills. Arsenic is also naturally occurring in groundwater, and in some areas the levels are above the EPA threshold for safety.

Unfortunately, many contaminants are undetectable to the eyes, nose and mouth. And unlike public drinking water systems, people with wells typically do not test their water as often as they should. The EPA says that well water should be tested annually for bacteria and nitrates. The environmental medicine experts at Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in New Jersey suggest testing for lead, arsenic, radon, uranium, and other heavy metals every three to five years.

The National Groundwater Association says county health departments can conduct water tests for bacteria and nitrates. Those who want to test for other substances can get a list of state-certified drinking water testing labs. The Well Wise program is administered by the Ontario Ground Water Association and can provide water testing for consumers. This is a good place to start for Canadian residents. Footwear

Wear solid shoes that provide considerable traction during home improvements. A firm, reinforced toe is helpful as well. Should any items fall, they'll be less likely to cause injury if your foot is encased in a protective boot or sturdy shoe. Soles that grip surfaces will help safeguard against slips and falls.

Eye protection

Safety goggles and glasses are a must-have for any do-it-yourselfer. They will provide a barrier between the eye and flying debris. According to VisionWeb, an eye education resource, most of the 110,000 eye injuries that occur each year in homes within the United States result from splashes with household cleaners, flying debris such as wood chips, or getting hit by branches. Many of these injuries can be prevented by wearing eye protection.

Ear protection

Power tools can be quite loud. When operating loud, powered machinery, use earplugs or safety earmuffs to reduce the risk of damage to hearing and potential hearing loss. Ventilation and respiratory protection

When working with chemicals and other products that have strong odors and/or emit particulates into the air, make sure you do so in well-ventilated areas. This will help dissipate the smell and prevent inhalation of concentrated chemical substances. Masks guard against dust, pollen and some other microscopic particles and may not provide enough protection, depending on the job. The Home Depot suggests using particulate or filtration respirators when performing tasks, such as sanding, where you might be exposed to particles. Gas and vapor respirators offer protection against additional substances.

Create a safe environment

When working at home, make sure to use tools in the manner in which they were designed. Keep power cords tidy so they do not pose a tripping hazard. Falls from ladders often occur when climbing above the recommended rung or engaging in risky behavior while on the ladder, such as reaching or hanging over too far.

When outdoors, exercise caution in inclement weather, which can make it harder to work safely. Be sure there are no bystanders too close when using power tools or tools that can kick up debris.

The right safety gear and some smart do-it-yourself techniques can help DIYers avoid injury.

Gasoline can be more dangerous than dynamite since it emits invisible, explosive vapours that ignite easily, even at low temperatures.

- Never store gasoline in basements, pits or otherconfined areas. Gasoline must be stored in areas that are well ventilated, free from ignition sources and in areas permitted by the National Fire Code of Canada.
- · Never smoke while you are handling gasoline or other flammable liquids
- Never use gasoline to start your BBQ or as a cleaner or solvent.

A Little Prevention Goes a Long Way Follow these prevention tips to safeguard your home & family Always remain in the kitchen while cooking, and keep things that can burn, such as towels, plastic bags or paper, at least three feet away from the stovetop.

Store matches and lighters in a place where children cannot reach them.
Keep space heaters at least three feet from curtains, newspapers and other things that can burn, and never leave heaters unattended.
Install smoke alarms on every level of your home and inside or near every bedroom. Test alarms monthly, and replace batteries once a year.
Develop and discuss a home fire escape plan with your family. Identify two exits from every room, and pick a meeting place outside the home.
