Submitted by MLA Shane Getson

Community Champions Presented With Queen Elizabeth II Platinum Jubilee Medals

On Thursday, January 12, the main floor of the Anohka Distillery near Carvel was transformed into a hall of celebration as members from the Lac Ste. Anne-Parkland constituency gathered to honor 30 admirable members of their communities.

"It was an honor and a privilege as the MLA to recognize the Platinum Jubilee Medal recipients as well as the runners-up," said MLA Shane Getson, "simply put, these are very humble, hard-working people who set a tremendous example for the rest of us to follow when it comes to being the heart of their communities."

The Onoway Legion runs a Honey Pot that legion members can win!

Each time a member is in the legion, if they put a dollar in the pot and sign their name, they're part of the draw. The draw happens every time there's an activity (e.g. darts, pool, dinner), when a name is drawn out of the entire membership list. Whether the winner is present or not, if they've signed in that day, they win the pot. Because there are multiple draws each week, the pot sometimes grows into the hundreds before anyone wins.

If you aren't a member, why not?

Queen's Platinum Jubilee Medal Presentations

Jubilee Medal was released in celebration of the Queen's 70 years of service; the momentous milestone that made her the longest reigning monarch in the history of the British Commonwealth. Each MLA was given the task of selecting just 20 constituents to receive this prestigious honor. This was no easy feat, and serious consideration was given to every nomination that was submitted.

Twenty medal recipients were chosen, each receiving a framed certificate commemorating their achievement along with the Platinum Jubilee Medal. Tears flowed as these selfless community members were honored by their peers for their tireless work in creating better communities around them and, by extension, improving the world that we all live in. Ten runners-up were also recognized for their contributions, as no act of service to your community is a small one.

Queen Elizabeth had stated that she wanted any Platinum Jubilee celebration

JOKE of the week

A guy is sitting at home when he hears a knock at the door. He opens the door and sees a snail on the porch. He picks up the snail and throws it as far as he can.

A year later, there's another knock at the door. He opens it and sees the same snail. The snail says, "What was that all about?"

to be an occasion for enjoying a sense of togetherness and optimism about the future. As the recipients and their guests enjoyed afternoon refreshments after the presentations, this sense of togetherness was evident in the laughter and conversation that was shared.

These deserving recipients know that service to your community isn't just a one time action. It's the small, consistent actions over time that add up to make a huge difference. They understand that by giving back to their communities, they are leaving a lasting legacy, and we can all learn from their examples.

PROTECT YOURSELF FROM SCAMMERS

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Albertans should use caution if they receive a text message claiming to be from government about affordability payments.

Alberta's government has received reports of text messages attempting to defraud unsuspecting Albertans, including seniors and families who may be eligible for targeted relief payments. In one scam text, people are asked to click on a link to register for automatic bank payments.

The Government of Alberta will never text you or make unsolicited calls to ask you for your personal information.

A secure, online application portal for affordability payments was launched by the government on Jan. 18.

Families with household incomes below $180,000 are eligible to receive $100 per month for six months for each dependent child under 18. Seniors 65 or older who have household incomes below $180,000 and do not receive the Alberta Seniors Benefit can also apply for monthly payments.

Anyone who cannot apply online can apply in person through any registry agent or Alberta Supports Centre.

Albertans who receive benefits through Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped (AISH), Income Support or the Alberta Seniors Benefit, or services through the Persons with Developmental Disabilities (PDD) program, are already registered for the program and will automatically receive payments.

PROJECTS - POLITICS & PODCASTING

Submitted by MLA Shane Getson

I have an addiction problem; I'm addicted to projects.

I, Shane Getson am a "Proje-Holic".

Upon reflection, I've begun to realize that it started at a young age. At that time a new addiction was being cultivated by an uncle of mine who was only 10 years older than myself. He was working for a company called Western Casson as a crane operator, and he was learning so much about the industry and how it worked. I remember one Christmas gathering, he came back home from a shift that seemed to have lasted forever and described to me a world that was extremely exciting and full of opportunity. As it turned out, he too was a "Proje-Holic", and apparently so were both of my grandfathers from days gone by. Evidently, I come by this quite honestly.

Projects to me, especially major projects, are highly addictive. There simply are far too many variables for two projects to ever remotely be the same. Linear projects were the most addictive; they could not be contained behind a fence, or a single property line, but could literally bind nations together stretching across provincial, state, and country borders.

Upon further reflection, it is no wonder I took on this new role as a politician, when the projects, teams, industries, and the services that we provided, things that I was so proud to be a part of were quite literally coming under attack. Our province was being told that we should be ashamed of the main industries that we have along with the services we provide not only to our own countrymen, but to the world. It seemed that even the "greenest" project wasn't good enough, our economy was being eroded, people were losing their jobs, and we were all going to be punished at the cash register for our way of life. The effect of this on everyone that I talked to was universally negative. Time to step up; if I couldn't fix it from the outside, I'd better figure out how to fix it from the inside. Next Project: Politics.

To my pleasant surprise, I met more "Proje-Holics" in politics. They were the community builders, the volunteers, the regular folks. They wanted to make sure we took our province back and corrected the direction it was heading down under that "new style" of management. It sure stirred the soul to meet new people, many of whom were strangers to each other, coming together for a project that was bigger than the individual to make our province a better place.

I believe that most folks are tired of politics right now; it has been a rough ride for everyone over the last few years. We are tired of the overreach, tired of half-hatched plans being launched on us by the big urban jungles and by folks on the other end of the country, tired of them changing our way of life without consultation. We have a provincial general election that will take place this spring, with one side fighting back against the federal government's continued overreach, and the other side laying prostrate, propping up that same government that is trying to sink us.

I also believe that folks have more on tap...that when they realize what is at stake, we will indeed rally together to deal with the common challenges, park the 10 percent of issues we don't agree on, and take care of the task at hand. We cannot afford to lose ground, fall backwards, and have our provincial leaders be back in bed with the Liberal Government. Right here, right now, Alberta and Saskatchewan are the provinces that are giving so many Canadians hope that we still have a country worth fighting for, and one that we can once more be proud to call home. I've been on several podcasts, have done interviews, and even received responses from the social media posts I've made that have people across the country looking to us to hold the line. The kicker is that many don't know how to get involved, but they want to, and they realize that they must. Please find below some simple steps to help you do the same.

1. Buy a membership in the provincial party of your choice, one that is blue would be a good choice in my humble opinion.

a. Note: You need to be a member to vote for your local nomination contestant. There will be a mini election only for party members to pick their candidate to run in the spring election

2. Become an active member of your local constituency association by engaging with and helping where you can. This is a volunteer board; they have directors and executive positions. There are sub-committees that do a ton of things not only to help our community, but to make sure that the local candidate is good to go for the election.

3. Talk to people, find out what matters to them, get that information back to the board, your candidate and/or the MLA. It's about making sure we genuinely get the best ideas, as well as to know the issues so we can come up with solutions together.

4. Help develop party policy. This "policy" becomes the platform that the party candidates will be running on. At this stage, about 90 % of the platform commitments made by the UCP in the 2019 election have been enacted. Those policies came from the membership.

It's literally that simple, join the team and take on the project of growing Alberta for future generations, all while keeping it safe from harm by those that would see it weakened and diminished.

The projects that I'm involved with currently are larger than our own backyard, but we play an integral part in their overall success. Economic Corridors are going to strengthen our ties with our provincial and territorial partners in the Northwest and get our products out to the deep seaports. These projects will have an impact going forward for multiple generations.

As well, I'm going to be taking to the airwaves on my own podcast called "What Matters to You".

The general themes and topics will involve freedom, business, politics, places to see/things to do locally, aviation, guns & gear. Our first guest is going to be Shaun Newman, of the Shaun Newman Podcast. I've been on his show a few times now, along with over 300 other guests. I was very happy to know that The Blake Richards Band has allowed us to use their hit single "Rollin' Coal" as the theme music for the show.

Again, we have good folks coming together, to do what they can to help us "Hold the Line" and make sure we keep our province "Strong and Free".

I'll be out in the community as much as I can over the next month as we will not be sitting in session until the later part of February. I'll be hitting as many community events, meetings, and cafés as I can along the way. In case I don't see you, I'll be leaving questionnaires behind with the business owners and managers that will permit me to; these are based on the key items that we will be addressing once we go back into session. I want to get your direct feedback about what matters to you, to find out if we are on track, if we have missed anything, and to make sure we get all the good ideas we can to make things right going forward. I hope to get your feedback, and I thank you in advance for your help.

of the week

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

We now carry Manuli! They are a European manufacturer and they engineer it all in Europe. All of their product is produced in their own factory, no outsource. Adding this in we have been able to gain access to many of the European fittings that have become much more common in North America.

BSPP, Metric Din, Metic cone, JIS.

These fittings are clear across all brands John Deere, Case, New Holland, JCB, Fendt, Massey Ferguson. Many of the implements that have been sold in the last few years have also used these predominantly European fittings.

We offer these services
