EVANSBURG RCMP CHARGES MULTIPLE PROLIFIC OFFENDERS AFTER FLIGHT FROM POLICE

Submitted by Evansburg RCMP

On May 10, 2024, just after midnight, Evansburg RCMP received a complaint of suspicious vehicles out in Parkland County, Alta., along Highway 627. Police attended the area, located two suspicious trucks and attempted to complete a traffic stop. The trucks ignored the police, attempted to flee the area and, in doing so, rammed one of the RCMP vehicles.

With the assistance of Edmonton Air Services, Mayerthorpe RCMP, Parkland RCMP, and Drayton Valley RCMP, the members proceeded to pursue both vehicles, resulting in the arrest of 3 males and 1 female. It was confirmed that both trucks had been recently stolen from Vermilion, Alta., and Red Deer, Alta. All suspects are well known prolific offenders who were all out on release orders for varying offences, with one male wanted on a Canada-wide warrant for parole violations.

As a result of the investigation, the following

On March 11, 2024 at approximately 3:30 pm a traffic stop was initiated by the Alberta Sheriffs for a traffic violation on Highway 16 near Highway 60. During the traffic stop the Sheriff observed a several weapons, including a firearm, and drug paraphernalia. The suspect was arrested and the Parkland RCMP was contacted to assist with the investigation. Parkland RCMP seized the vehicle and obtained a Judicial Authorization to search the vehicle. Parkland RCMP located and seized a number of items from the vehicle, including but not limited to, a loaded shotgun, two unloaded shotguns,

SUPPORTING COMMUNITY JUSTICE INITIATIVES

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Alberta's government is investing $961,000 to support community justice initiatives that serve the unique needs of Alberta communities.

Resolving legal matters outside the traditional court system is faster, cheaper and less stressful for everyone involved. The Alberta Community Justice Grant reflects the Alberta government's commitment to making the justice system more accessible, inclusive and responsive to the needs of the province's diverse communities. It will give more options for resolving criminal, family and civil justice matters through a process that is culturally sensitive and aligns with people's values.

For the 2023-24 fiscal year, 39 grant recipients from across the province were selected to receive grant funding, including nine in Calgary, nine in Edmonton, five in southern Alberta, 11 in central Alberta and five in northern Alberta. The organizations support families and communities and include Indigenous-based organizations, as well as those dedicated to criminal matters, family law matters and multiple other legal issues.

“I am proud of this innovative approach to alternative justice for Albertans. This grant will support organizations to boost community-driven alternatives to the formal court system to better serve their communities.”

Mickey Amery, Minister of Justice and Attorney General

The Alberta Community Justice Grant provides up to $25,000 in one-time payments to organizations that provide community-based initiatives aimed at addressing a range of legal issues. These include the development or enhancement of restorative justice programs and increasing access to justice in family law matters.

Other programs include initiatives that provide cultural safety training to justice system professionals, increase access to legal information for new Canadians, and carry out assessments to identify justice needs and service gaps within the community.

“Youth Justice Committees across Alberta provide meaningful community-based alternatives to the formal justice system by helping young people to make amends for their actions, access needed resources and contribute in a positive way to their community. This grant will amplify this restorative approach, resulting in immediate and long-lasting benefits for young people, their families, victims, our justice system and our communities.”

Denise Blair, executive director, Calgary Youth Justice Society

“The Fort Foundation Community Justice Hub empowers individuals to navigate the complexities of the legal system. We are deeply honoured to receive the Alberta Community Justice Grant, which will enable us to expand our community-driven programs and increase access to equitable justice in Fort Saskatchewan and Rural Communities.”

Sarah Spence, executive director, Fort Foundation

“This grant will allow staff from our agency, along with the YMCA staff, to increase their knowledge related to restorative justice practices and Indigenous teachings, which will enhance and deepen our work with the youth in the Diversion First program.”

HELPING COMMUNITIES SAVE MONEY, LOWER ENERGY COSTS

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Alberta's new $6-million program will help municipalities make energy-saving upgrades, reducing costs and emissions.

Arenas, community centres and other facilities consume large amounts of energy. These facilities can be costly to operate and upgrades are often expensive to implement. With inflation and energy costs on the rise, many municipalities want to improve energy efficiency and save money.

Thanks to funding from the Alberta government, municipalities can now apply to the Community Energy Conservation Program to make energy-efficient upgrades to municipally owned buildings. This will help communities of all sizes save energy, lower energy costs and reduce emissions.

"We are helping municipalities make the practical upgrades they need to increase energy efficiency and lower energy costs. By making upgrades to rec centres, arenas and community halls, we can reduce emissions while supporting growing communities for years to come."

Rebecca Schulz, Minister of Environment and Protected Areas

Under the new Community Energy Conservation Program, up to $500,000 is available per municipality, including community-related organizations. The funding can be used for recreation centres, libraries, community halls, transit centres, fire halls and waste water treatment facilities, among others.

"Local facilities, from community halls to hockey rinks, are at the heart of every municipality in Alberta. Urban or rural, large or small or mid-sized, the municipalities of Alberta have been calling for an energy conservation program to make a difference in their communities. I am looking forward to seeing this program in action and to see the efficiencies and savings it will create at the local level."

Ric Melver, Minister of Municipal Affairs

Communities can apply for funding to help conduct energy audits of existing community facilities. They can also receive funding for a wide range of projects, including upgrading insulation, heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems, interior and exterior lighting, and more. Municipalities are encouraged to visit the Municipal Climate Change Action Centre's website for more information.

"This new program will ensure that municipalities of all sizes can continue building resilient communities. This investment is creating economic and environmental benefits that collectively support the transition to a low-carbon future."

Trina Innes, executive director,

Municipal Climate Change Action Centre

The Community Energy Conservation Program is part of an $18-million investment by Alberta's government to help reduce costs for municipalities through the Municipal Climate Change Action Centre. It is part of Alberta's Emissions Reduction and Energy Development Plan, which is reducing emissions, creating jobs and supporting a strong economy.

"The Community Energy Conservation Program provides an opportunity for rural municipalities, which may otherwise not have access to funding, to improve the energy efficiency of their buildings. This will allow rural municipalities to continue to fund their core services while reducing their energy usage."

Kara Westerlund, vice-president, Rural Municipalities of Alberta

SUPPORTING WILDLAND FIREFIGHTING HEROES

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Families of wildland firefighters are now eligible for Alberta's Heroes' Fund.

Alberta's first responders put their lives on the line each day to protect their communities. The Alberta Heroes' Fund for First Responders (Heroes' Fund) was established in 2020 to recognize those risks and sacrifices. Alberta is the only province with a fund of this kind. It provides a one-time, tax-free payment of $100,000 to eligible families of first responders who have lost their lives performing their duties, such as police officers, paramedics and firefighters.

Alberta's government is now expanding the fund's eligibility, through an order-in-council, to include the families of fallen wildland firefighters.

"There is no higher form of public service than to risk one's life to maintain public safety, and Alberta's government is honouring that. Being eligible for the Heroes' Fund recognizes the great risks our wildland firefighters take to protect our lives and communities. While I know the payment cannot bring back their loved ones, it will help ease the burdens for families of fallen wildland firefighters."

Matt Jones, Minister of Jobs, Economy and Trade

Eligibility for Heroes' Fund payments now extend to workers who fight, suppress or extinguish a wildfire, such as firefighters on the ground and helicopter and water bomber crews. The Workers' Compensation Board (WCB) is responsible for determining eligibility on a case-by-case basis.

"These fallen wildland firefighters and their families have made the ultimate sacrifice while protecting the people and communities of Alberta and their sacrifice will not be forgotten. This monetary support will never be enough, but it is hoped that it will ease some of the financial burden facing families who must deal with the loss of a loved one."

James MacKinnon, wildland director, Canadian Fallen Firefighters Foundation

In addition to wildland firefighters, those eligible for Heroes' Fund payments include the families of structural firefighters employed by a municipality or Metis Settlement, police officers, sheriffs, provincial correctional officers and paramedics.

"I'm proud that we're expanding the province's Heroes' Fund to include our wildland firefighters. They go to work every day, knowing the sacrifice they and their families may be faced with. Albertans owe a debt of gratitude to the brave men and women who work tirelessly throughout the wildfire season to protect our communities and forests."

NURSE PRACTITIONERS TO HELP STRENGTHEN PRIMARY CARE

Submitted by Government of Alberta

A new program will support nurse practitioners to work independently and provide Albertans with more access to primary care clinics.

Alberta's government is committed to stabilizing, strengthening and improving Alberta's primary health care system. Every Albertan should be able to access primary care when and where they need it. To help achieve this goal, the government is expanding opportunities for nurse practitioners.

Through the Nurse Practitioner Primary Care Program, nurse practitioners will receive approximately 80 per cent of the compensation provided to family physicians who provide comprehensive primary care. Compensation will be determined based on panel size (the number of patients a nurse practitioner sees) and the number of patient care hours provided. The program will enable nurse practitioners to practise comprehensive patient care autonomously and operate their own practices, or to practise autonomously in existing primary care clinics.

"Nurse practitioners are a welcome and integral part of the solution to improving access to primary health care services. Finalizing this funding model is an exciting step forward in our journey to refocus health care in Alberta, and I'm looking forward to this expansion of health care services."

Danielle Smith, Premier To be eligible for compensation through the $15-million program, nurse practitioners must meet a number of requirements, including committing to provide medically necessary primary care services, having a panel size of at least 900 patients, providing after-hours access on weekends, evenings or holidays, and accepting walk-in appointments as they build a panel size of 900 patients. The minimum panel size of 900 is consistent with the British Columbia model.

The nurse practitioner program is structured to incentivize higher patient attachment as compensation for nurse practitioners increases as their panel size grows. This, in combination with the other incentives including the Panel Management Support Program, will help to support the more than 700,000 Albertans who are currently not attached to a primary health care provider.

"This program is exciting news for Albertans. It not only increases health care capacity in communities across the province but also provides more Albertans with access to a regular primary care provider and will help take pressure off the rest of the health system. Supporting nurse practitioners to do more of the work they are trained to do is another tool we're using to stabilize and strengthen primary health care throughout Alberta.”

 Adriana LaGrange, Minister of Health
 Clinics, communities and Primary Care Networks can partner with nurse practitioners who are just entering practice by applying for one-time mentorship funding. Each mentor is eligible for $10,000 during a nurse practitioner’s first 18 months to ensure a successful transition to independent practice.
 “Many Albertans are still without access to a primary care provider. With 900 nurse practitioners in Alberta, there is an opportunity to significantly improve access to primary care services. This is the right next step in a marathon of change that is necessary for our primary care system. I look forward to continuing this work to ensure the success and viability of these practices and improving access to primary care services for Albertans.”

 Jennifer Mador, president, Nurse Practitioner Association of Alberta
 Nurse practitioners interested in practising through this program can now submit an expression of interest to Alberta Health. Each expression of interest will be evaluated, and nurse practitioners who meet the requirements will be sent an application form. Through a $2-million grant over the next three years, the Nurse Practitioner Association of Alberta will help nurse practitioners throughout the application process, recruit nurse practitioners to participate in the program and support them as they plan to work independently in an existing practice or set up their own clinics.

 “By providing more options for rural and remote communities to access primary care by way of nurse practitioners, we will ensure all Albertans have the ability to get the care they need when and where they need it, ultimately providing better health outcomes.”
 Martin Long, parliamentary secretary for rural health
 “The new compensation model for nurse practitioners will strengthen Alberta’s primary care system and ensure more Albertans get access to care they need, when and where they need it. This is great news for patients and nurse practitioners.”

of the week

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!
